You're a Telephone Operator

There are three parties to a telephone connection—the party calling, the called and the operator who serves both.

You and every other telephone user are essential partners in the company that gives good telephone service.

You should speak the number slowly and distinctly; the called subscriber should answer promptly; and the telephone girl, courteous and painstaking throughout, will seldom make a mistake if the other two "operators" do their part.

Help toward good service by following the suggestions in the "Information" section in the forepart of your telephone directory.

Miss Anna Holland, of Edgely avenue, is attending the Bristol high school for a three-year term.

Little Viola Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Allen, of Headley Manor, is attending school in Philadelphia.

A number of the residents of Headley Manor are re-pointing their houses and getting ready for the winter blasts.

Elmer Allen, of Headley Manor, has a fine new hound dog and if all reports are true the rest of the gunners in this section will do well to throw their guns away as there will be nothing to shoot at after the first day of rabbit season.

A number of large king rail birds were killed on the marshes above this place on Saturday last but the cold spell this week has chased all of the birds South.

Joseph Ford, of Philadelphia, is spending a couple of weeks with William Weldon, at this place.

The tomatoes on the D. Landreth seed farms are ripening so fast that enough pickers cannot be secured to prevent the fruit from decaying, and the catchup factory is working overtime in an effort to get all of the benefit of the crop before the frost ruins it.

Prof. Thompson, of Mt. Airy, spent Saturday and Sunday at his summer home here. He had a number of visitors on Sunday.

Rev. George M. Brodhead, pastor of the Bristol M. E. church, will preach at the Headley Manor Sunday school on Sunday morning, October 5th, Keep the date in mind.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. William Loescher, of Headley Manor, was christened in the Presbyterian church at Bristol on Sunday last by Rev. Charles E. Burns, D. D.

Miss Helen McClintock, of this place, has been spending several days with relatives and friends in Bristol.

The new stable belonging to the pipe foundry has been completed and is a vast improvement over the structure recently destroyed by fire. The new building is nearly twice the size of the old one.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kensil and John E. Sowden, of Philadelphia, were Saturday and Sunday guests at "Cozy Nook."

The recent heavy rains have washed a number of large holes in the river bank in the Bloomsdale tract below this place, some of which are nearly ten feet deep.

The electric lights at the curve at "Cozy Nook" have been out of commission for several months and are very much missed on dark nights.

The trolley company is going to put bricks between the tracks at Rennie's Curve, which will be a big improvement as the water now lays in puddles at this point every heavy rain.

A number of gypsies were camping below this place for several days this week.

John Riley, of Philadelphia, who has been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLaughlin, of Riverside, has returned home.

William Lischer, of Edgely, has purchased the motor boat belonging to Charles T. Blackford, of this place.

John Kesiah, of Headley Manor, who has been on the sick list for several months, is much improved in health and able to attend his duties as night watchman at Headley Manor again.

Joshua Stubley, Headley Manor, has resigned his position as chief dispenser of thirst quenchers at Archer's cafe in Bristol and now says he is on his vacation for an indefinite length of time.

Chestnuts are ripe and the children are happy. There are quite a few nuts in this neighborhood but they are hard to get at as the trees are so high.

Charles Strumfels and family of Bristol, have moved into their new home on the pike above Green Lane.

Mrs. A. J. Frazier, of Riverview, has been spending two weeks with relatives near Jacksonville, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pedrick of the pike above Edgely avenue, were the week-end guests of relatives in Philadelphia.

Joseph Allen, a former resident of this place but now of Philadelphia, who was seriously ill, is reported as being entirely well and able to resume his position.

Howard Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Johnson, of Riverview, burned his hand very badly while at work in the foundry one day last week and has had a very sore hand.

John Steinbright, of Riverview was a Philadelphia visitor the forepart of this week.

Ernest Cowell, of Philadelphia, was the guest of Riverview friends last week.

Jesse and Samuel McLaughlin, of Bristol, spent Saturday and Sunday with their brother, Harry, at this place and caught several dozen sunfish and perch while here.

There was a good attendance at the Vandegrift sale near here last Saturday afternoon and good prices were realized.

Roy Dixon, of Edgely, was a Philadelphia visitor the forepart of the week.

A blue rock shoot will be held at Headley Manor on Saturday afternoon, October 4th, to which all local gunners are invited. A number of sweepstake events will be on the card and a good time is assured all who attend. Shoot starts at 2 o'clock sharp.

James Lawler, of Bristol, is teaching at the Delaware school at this place. Miss Anna Mathers, the former teacher, is now located at Glenside.

Mrs. William L. Johnson was tendered a "dish shower" on last Thursday evening in honor of her birthday. It was a surprise affair and was all that the name implies as the hostess was taken completely unawares. Cards were played and a number of selections on the piano helped pass a very pleasant evening. A delightful lunch was served at a late hour. Mrs. Johnson received a number of pretty dishes and glassware. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dunlan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pedrick, Mr. and Mrs. George Garrettson, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Remine, Mrs. Joseph Schofield and Mrs. William Tomlinson.

Although the ballots at the New York primaries may be as much as eighteen feet long, the politicians are worryingest some of the people understand how to vote.

It is probable that Uncle Re[illegible] would not go to the poor house even if he did take the boy to see the base game some Saturday afternoon.

The household goods belonging to Robert and Watson Atkinson were moved on Monday from their town house here into their farm home near Wrightstown. The property here is for sale.

A heavy rain storm passed over Newtown on Sunday evening, with one vivid flash of lightning, instantly followed with a most terrifying peal of thunder, which caused alarm in every home. The bolt of electricity struck a corner of the Sickle house, which is now occupied by the Kester family. The next door neighbors saw the bolt and the roof and cornice began to blaze instantly so phoned in an alarm of fire. The fire company at once responded, but the flames were put out by the heavy rain, and the house only sustained slight damage all outside.

Investigations of Water Resources.

In connection with its investigations of surface water the United States Geological Survey publishes records of stream flow at sixteen gaging stations in Pennsylvania. Records for twelve of these stations are furnished by the Water Supply Commission of Pennsylvania, and records for the remaining four are supplied by the Philadelphia Board of Water Supply. At these gaging stations the height or stage of the rivers is determined each day by local observers, and measurements of the discharge of the streams are made at intervals by engineers of the water-resources branch of the Geological Survey. From these data the quantity of water flowing past the stations is determined. This information is of immediate use in Pennsylvania, in the design, construction, and maintenance of power plants, in studies of flood prevention, water storage, and river regulation, and in the determination of suitable municipal water supplies. These hydrometric records are published in the reports of the Pennsylvania Water Supply Commission and the regular series of Water-Supply Papers of the Federal Survey.

How Bad Backs Have Been Made Strong--Kidney Ills Corrected.

All over Bristol you hear it. Doan's Kidney Pills are keeping up the good work. Bristol people are telling about it—telling of bad backs made sound again. You can believe the testimony of your own townspeople. They tell it for the benefit of you who are suffering. If your back aches, if you feel lame, sore and miserable, if the kidneys act too frequently, or passages are painful, scanty and off color, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has helped so many of your friends and neighbors. Follow this Bristol citizen's advice and give Doan's a chance to do the same for you.

Mrs. Nellie Klein, 120 Cedar St., Bristol, Pa., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to tell of my experience. Some years ago I began to suffer from pains in my back and sides. I had often seen Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and getting a box, I used them. I began to feel better from the first and after I had finished one box, I was well. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills since and they have always helped me."

ROSS MAY RUN ON NOVEMBER TICKET

Commissioner Barndt Refused to Sign Ryan's Certificate as Returns Do Not Show Number of Ballots Cast.

Doylestown, September 24.

The Primary election is over, but instead of the usual quietness that pervades the county seat after an election everything, politically speaking, is in a ferment. County Commissioner Isaiah Barndt has refused to sign the return furnished by the authorities at Harrisburg for the non-partisan ballot because it does not contain a certificate of the number of votes cast and therefor is incomplete. It is hoped by the Democratic leaders that this will result in a contest whereby instead of Judge William C. Ryan having his name alone on the ballot for the November election that it will result in the name of Thomas Ross also appearing on the ballot, but as the other two county commissioners have signed the return and forwarded it to Harrisburg it is more than probable that Commissioner Barndt's refusal to sign will not result as it was anticipated unless the matter is taken into the courts and then it is doubtful if the Supreme Court would reach a decision in time to effect the election.

The best plan would have been to have contested the constitutionality of the Primary Act and had the Supreme Court decide the main question.

As a man of affairs said here the other day "the primary law may be constitutional but it is exceedingly unpopular." One of the peculiar results of the primary was the defeat of the Democratic organization candidate for Prothonotary. Usually a few men get together in the Democratic ranks and select the candidates for the various offices and then their henchmen are sent around the town with the petitions for a place on the ticket and if very many are required, faithful followers in Perkasie and Quakertown obtain the balance of the number. This was rendered necessary because of late years there has been trouble in getting a Democrat to stand a nomination because they all felt that defeat was sure and no one likes to be licked but all the same no one but all tried adherent of the inner circle could get the nomination until this year so that it had all the appearance of a boss ticket, but now the spell is broken and two years from now there will probably be lots of good Democrats willing to serve their country in office just as there are lots and lots of good Republicans now who would be candidates if they could get permission and who are just as anxious to hold office.

The 104th Pennsylvania Regiment that served all through the Civil War with distinction and was recruited almost entirely in Bucks county, held their reunion here last week and was very much aggrieved at the small notice taken of it by county seat residents. It certainly created no excitement, but that was largely owing to the small number of veterans left to attend and also to the fact that hardly any one knew they were coming there having been but little newspaper notice of the event. In fact when deputy postmaster Joseph Hart, rather late in the morning went to the fire house and put out the flags, the first in town, everybody began inquiring what the flags meant and the reunion was almost over before a majority of the people knew it was coming off. Next year a little judicious notice in the newspapers will get for the "boys in blue" a hearty welcome and a reception that will show them that they are still appreciated. Fifty of the survivors were present and took a hearty part in the proceedings. Judge Ryan delivered the address of welcome in his usual able and brilliant manner and Col. R. M. J. Reed, of Philadelphia, also made an eloquent address. There will be but few more reunions but it is hoped that the next one will be larger and have a better time.

In connection with the 104th reunion many comments were made on the absence of the school children from the afternoon session and also that our public school is one of the very few that does not fly the American flag. The school children were absent probably because they had not been invited to attend and those in authority did not know that they would have been welcomed. The directors are answerable for the lack of a flag and have no good reason for their neglect. Over a year ago Washington Camp, No. 631, P. O. S. of A. offered to erect a mast and present the school with a flag without one penny of cost to the board of school directors. The camp had some difficulty in having any notice at all taken of their offer and were finally put off with the excuse that the new building was to be erected and until that was completed the directors were unable to decide just where they would like to have a flagpole erected. The new school building has been completed for some time, school has been started and the new building is being used but the directors are still unable to decide from what part of their grounds or building they prefer to have "Old Glory" to fly although the school code directs them to have it flying somewhere on the premises on all favorable days.

William H. Jones, of the colored persuasion, and hailing from Philadelphia, who was arrested at Langhorne for disorderly conduct on August 20th last, and sent up to the jail for thirty days and whose sentence expired last Friday morning at eight o'clock, attempted suicide in the jail at about five o'clock on Thursday afternoon by cutting his throat with a razor. Jones had been doing the barbering for the jail and as his time was so near out was not so closely watched as some others. Jones kept up quite a correspondence while in the jail and although married, seemed to have at least two other women who expected to see him the moment his time expired and it was thought that perhaps he felt safe where he was and feared liberty more than he did imprisonment. After the doctor had patched him up, the time of the expiration of his sentence was advanced a few hours and he was put on a Willow Grove trolley and sent to his Philadelphia home.

William Burroughs, of the county seat, made the acquaintance of two fair damsels at the trolley terminus last Saturday night, and John Rahr, of Danboro, who was on his way home thought that William had more than his fair share of girls and though unacquainted with any of the party he endeavored to separate William from at least one of the girls, which caused hard feelings on William's part and a considerable waste of the English language, of which William seems to have been getting away with more than his fair share of the laurels, John feeling that as a linguist he was losing ground resorted to his fists in consequence of which William had John arrested and John retorted by having William arrested. When John had his hearing before 'Squire Nightingale one of the girls caused considerable amusement by her failure to recognize either her friend William or the interloper, John. 'Squire Nightingale discharged John upon his paying some twelve or thirteen dollars costs and William will have a hearing before 'Squire William W. Hall, of Danboro, and it remains to be seen whether he will get off as easily as did John.

Whether or not Bucks county will avail itself of the "Mother's Pension Act" remains to be seen. So far the county commissioners have taken no steps to avail themselves of the law which requires the county to appropriate an amount equal to that appropriated by the State and which so far is unknown so far as this county is concerned. If Bucks county does avail itself of the law there will be seven ladies appointed as a board of trustees to examine into the qualifications of each applicant for a share of the fund. In the event of the applicant qualifying as an indigent or abandoned mother she will receive a sum not exceeding twelve dollars a month if she have one dependent child; twenty dollars a month for two dependent children and twenty-six dollars a month for three dependent children and an additional five dollars a month for each additional child. This is, perhaps, a good law for some sections of the state but such cases are happily rare in the good old county of Bucks and there would be few applicants.

Doylestown's Presbyterian church at last has its new organ and on Friday night it will receive its first public test at which time Frederick Mason, organist at the First Baptist church of Philadelphia will give an organ recital. Dedication services will be held next Sunday morning with Mr. Rowland presiding at the organ and the well known bass singer, Mr. Mason in the choir. Mr. Mason will do some solo work and the service will be an elaborate one.

Rev. H. R. McDade, formerly pastor in charge of the Doylestown Methodist church, but recently removed to Marcus Hook, has determined to put an end to "booze parties" on the streets of Marcus Hook and after vain pleadings from the pulpit and personal remonstrance of no effect he resorted to the camera and after having taken several pictures, in which men of more or less prominence figured, he proposed to have something on the order of a moving picture show with the results of his work with the camera as a principal feature. This proposition put an end to the public booze fighting and as long as he is there Marcus Hook's streets will be comparatively free from that form of amusement. It is a pity he did not stay another year at the county seat and use his camera here.

A Senator Praises Suffra[ge]

Philadelphia North American.

Woman suffrage is nothing more n[or] less than one of the fundamentals [of] government, one of the essentials [of] progress, which is bound to c[ome] when popular government becom[es a] reality. This is the simple exp[lana]tion of the suffrage movement [given] by Senator Moses Clapp, of M[inne]sota, who addressed the Lemo[n ...] Association on "Ideals of C[itizen]ship."

Senator Clapp drew a [...] the real opponents of suff[rage] are the opponents of popula[r govern]ment. Those [who] believe in popular government [know] that every law involves a mora[l ques]tion, and it is absurd to try [to settle] moral questions, and leave at [arm's] length the mightiest moral for[ce of all] ages, American womanhood."

He depicted the genius of civiliza[tion] exemplified in the special privilege, and traced its origin to the impulse and opportunity which created Alexander and Napoleon. The greed of today is the greed of yesterday, he said, and can only be fought by the concerted forces of good. He referred to government half measures, laws made and laxly enforced, "in the twilight zone of discretion," and declared that the ideal citizenship involves an understanding of the forces that make up government and a recognition of the fact that "as wrong never sleeps and never is wearied, so right should never sleep nor be wearied in striving for the welfare of the many."

The failure of the School Teachers' Association of Bristol to obtain a sufficient guarantee to warrant them in providing a lecture course this winter is to be regretted. The lectures and entertainments given under their supervision in former years were much enjoyed by those who attended them, and while there was no profit made or expected there was no dissatisfaction in the ultimate outcome.

There have been several reasons advanced to account for the failure to obtain a sufficient guarantee this year. The counter-attractions of the moving picture shows have been named as one of the principal causes for a diminished interest in the lecture course. Another reason advanced is the comparative inaccessibility of the hall in which the entertainments are given. Many people object to climbing three flights of stairs, and a third reason, perhaps as potent as any, is that most persons are reluctant to pay out money unless they are sure of the quality of the goods they are to get.

A proposed course even when made up of attractive and diversified entertainments will not enlist the attention and approval of the general public until the names of the lecturers are presented to the people. If it had been possible for the management of the proposed lecture course to have given the programme for the season the result might have been different.

UPHOLDS THE NEW TARIFF.

New York woolen goods men are reported to have shown no little interest in the following letter from W. H. Harris, of Boston, to the Textile Manufacturers' Journal, in which he ridicules the idea that the American manufacturer of these goods is unable to compete with foreign manufacturers under the new tariff:

The main claim made for the protection of the woolen and worsted industry has been for an offset against the difference in cost of labor here and abroad. I sincerely believe that the Underwood tariff was built with the best information obtainable on this point, and with careful consideration of the necessary differential between free wool and tops, tops and yarn, and yarn and manufactured goods. The duties arrived at provide protection not only equal to any difference in labor costs, but are equivalent on the average to the whole labor item in each article. If our industry cannot hold American trade with this protection it is a sorry admission.

THE NEWSPAPER EXCHANGE.

There is no section of the newspaper that comes home closer to where people live than the classified advertising. No matter how much more important theoretically the news from Mexico may be, the fact that your neighbor has offered his house for sale at a certain price touches you much more closely.

From these columns you read the intimate story of the town's daily life. The housewife is curious to know who is advertising for positions as servants. Working people want to know who is asking for help. People who own or who wish to buy or rent real estate are interested in the pending transfers. It is hard to find a class of people who do not follow these notices week by week.

The science is perfectly astonishing how many answers are often received from a simple little insertion in the For Rent, For Sale, and Want columns. Anything you can do by personal inquiry multiplied a hundred fold by letter or press.

[illegible] people will put in hours or [illegible] and time worth dollars, running [illegible] and making inquiries haphazard when they want to rent a place [illegible] some property. Meanwhile a [illegible] nickles or dimes spent in the [illegible] paper would reach a hundred [illegible] people. Usually the man [illegible] expect to interest has other [illegible] while the newspaper brings [illegible] strangers and sources [illegible] never occur to you.

[illegible] of advertising permits [illegible] get the best price, because [illegible] whether there is to be any [illegible]. It gives the seller the [illegible] outrageous trade, because he [illegible] either there is really to be a [illegible]

[illegible] any places farmers are already [illegible] good business through the [illegible] by newspaper advertising. [illegible] are developing a trade that [illegible] rather pay a special price [illegible] through middlemen. The [illegible] advertising is a time saver [illegible] money earner.

[illegible] Boer War it cost Great Britain [illegible],000 for every Boer soldier killed, in Panama it cost the United States $2.41 for every life saved, says the Cleveland Plaindealer. It has cost an average of 77 cents each to cure hookworm sufferers in the Southern States from the indolence-begetting hookworm disease. Even the deadly sleeping sickness of Africa is being successfully combated at an average cost of only about $15. Yet, though it is evident on every hand that saving life is comparatively cheap and easy [illegible], every year the civilized nations are squeezing $8,000,000,000 out of their taxpayers not to kill other men, but generally to be ready to kill them if the occasion should arise.

It is characteristic of American [illegible] that the nonsense of wasting [illegible] nation's most valuable asset [illegible] have been recognized most [illegible] in a commercial way. [illegible] refused a comparatively [illegible] appreciation for helping to [illegible] among the Indians. The [illegible] companies, on the other [illegible] for commercial reasons have inaugurated a conservative propaganda. [illegible] that the companies are [illegible] the longer a man [illegible] premiums he will pay, [illegible] the larger will be [illegible]. It is at least remarkable [illegible] should [illegible] such careful care in [illegible] insurance [illegible] is sending [illegible] money matters [illegible] world.

Bryan at the Chatauquas.

The following excellent communication was written by Dr. Frank Crane for the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin:

Certain newspapers "play up strong" the situation of Mr. Bryan as an entertainer sandwiched in between Swiss Yodlers and a magician on the programme; the intent being to discredit him and render him an absurd figure in the public eye.

The Chatauqua system is not a vaudeville affair, but is an institution peculiarly democratic and American, designed not only to amuse but to educate the common people of the rural communities. It is a better institution than anything that exists in the large cities. It is patronized by the highest quality of folk in the United States—the serious thinking, hard working common people. It is an ideal place for a public servant to speak to the public.

The real reason why snobs are shocked is because Mr. Bryan's form of relaxation is democratic and sensible. If the Secretary had devoted his spare time to knocking a little ball around an eighty acre pasture and counting how many strokes it took to get it into nine holes, afterwards retiring to the club house and imbibing high balls, nothing would have been said.

To bet upon horse races like Edward of England, to shoot tame deer driven toward him like William of Germany, to gamble at baccarat, to dally with chorus girls, to play at precedence at some summer resort, to ape the idle and vicious class of Europe, would have given Mr. Bryan high place among the egotistic and superficious set who are self-elected arbiters of fashion.

Gathering optimism is expressed by business men about the fall outlook. After a wide canvass of merchants and manufacturers the New York Journal of Commerce finds that they are experiencing an abundance of orders larger than for a long period. The enactment of the tariff bill, which is in sight, appears to be the marking point for a good advance in business activity.

Cadet Life at West Point.

Briefly, at 3:45 p. m. the academic work is over for the day and drills for all classes occupy the hour from 4 to 5, followed by a dress parade at 5:25, excepting Wednesdays and Saturdays. This is the schedule from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1 and from March 15 to June. On Saturdays academic work ends at 12:30, and, with the exception of inspection at 1:50, the afternoon of the cadet is free until 6:25 supper call. His amusements are much like those of college students generally. Football is perhaps the most popular organized sport. Games are played on the West Point grounds with teams from many colleges, and the season closes with the annual army-navy game, when the West Pointers meet the midshipmen from Annapolis on Franklin field, Philadelphia. Basket ball follows during the winter months, many contests with teams from other schools occurring during the season, and then in the spring comes baseball of course.—Popular Mechanics.

Woman and Her Hat.

A woman cannot stick a hat on her head as you stick a stamp on a letter. There is an ingenious machine that sticks stamps on letters at the rate of several thousands an hour. But nobody has invented a machine for sticking hats on the heads of women.

A man can buy a hat in five minutes, but no woman would dream of buying a hat in less than an hour. Often a woman will acquire a splitting headache in the attempt to find one hat to suit her out of a hundred, and not seldom she carries away the headache without a hat on it.

The hat hunt is only a small part of the daily agony of shopping, and yet a man would rather cut his throat than engage in a hat hunt as a dispassionate spectator. Men prefer to hunt the fox or the stag, the tiger or the lion, the grizzly or the grouse. A tiger hunt is not nearly so perilous as a hat hunt.—London Opinion.

Profits in Waste Paper.

The sale of waste paper used to afford perquisites for government officials. When John McCulloch (of Dictionary of Commerce fame) was appointed comptroller of the stationery office in 1841, he discovered that the proceeds from the sale of government waste paper were divided among his subordinates, who thus more than doubled their official incomes. The new comptroller prohibited this practice on the ground that all moneys derived from such sales belonged to the exchequer. Some of the officials disregarded this prohibition and continued to sell waste paper and pocket the proceeds. When this came to the ears of McCulloch they were prosecuted for "systematic appropriation of public property." For many years past the stationery office has made over £10,000 a year from the sale of waste paper.—London Mail.

Jenny Lind's California Debut.

At Monterey, Cal., formerly a part of Mexico and ceded to the United States during the Mexican war, is the first public building built in California and now a broken down, weather racked ruin of adobe. In this building Jenny Lind made her first California debut, and when the gold, the enthusiastic miners had thrown upon the stage after her performance was gathered up it was found to fill two five-gallon oil cans—about twenty pounds of gold and equal in value to about $5,000. Another curious building is a police station which is built within the braces of an oil derrick and for unique buildings certainly establishes a record.—Health Magazine.

Wise Old Doctor.

Patient (abed and very sick)—But, doc, if physicians never agree on anything, what's the use of calling any two of them for this consultation you propose?

Old Family Doctor—I'll fix that all right. I'll just go out and get a couple of these young fellows running around in the same make of automobile. When you get 'em agreed on that they generally think alike in everything else. Take it from me, the three of us will find out what's the matter with you in about ten minutes.—St. Louis Republic.

Thoughtless Expression.

"You say in this story," commented the copy reader, "that the heroine buried her face in her hands."

"Well," asked the story writer, "isn't that all right?"

"No. You can't have an ideal heroine with such large hands as that."—Washington Star.

Temperature of the Body.

The heat of the body varies at different ages and different times of the day. Except when you are suffering from fever you are never so hot as when you are born. The temperature of a newborn baby is about 102 degrees, but during the first day it rapidly goes down to 97½ degrees, rising again to a little above the average temperature of a grownup person, which is about 98½ degrees. The heat of your body varies as much as two degrees in twenty-four hours. The minimum is reached about 4 o'clock in the morning, when your vitality is at its lowest, and the maximum about 4 in the afternoon. People who work by night and sleep during the day, however, are coldest in the afternoon and warmest in the early morning. It is a remarkable fact that we nearly always die if our blood varies more than a few degrees either way. A temperature below 95 degrees or above 106 degrees is generally fatal.—Pearson's.

Criminals and Crime.

Is the criminal so because he wants to be so? No more wicked fallacy was ever foisted upon a credulous world than this. Nobody at any period of the world ever wished to be criminal. Every one instinctively hates and fears crime. Every one is honest by nature. It is inherent in the soul. I have never met a criminal who did not hate his crime even more than his condemners hate it. The apparent exception is when the man does not consider his act a crime. He has killed because his victim exasperated him to it. He has robbed society because society made war on him. The offender hates his crime.

But he is not ashamed of it?

Now, that is true. He is not ashamed of it in the current sense. He hates it, he fears it, but it does not fill him with a sense of sin.—H. Fielding Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

Sad Oversight.

"Why these pouts?"

"Look at this press notice!" stormed the actress.

"The critic speaks highly of your genius."

"And never mentions my gowns."—Washington Herald.

Two Ways.

"Be mine" is the proper form when proposing to a girl because you love her. "Be my mine" is all right if she's rich, but stir the pronoun carefully.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wifely Cheer.

"I haven't a pull with any one," said the unsuccessful man.

"Oh, yes, you have, dear," said his wife encouragingly, "with the fool killer."—Life.

We feel most lonely when we feel most selfish.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thron have moved from Mulberry street to Jefferson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wallace have moved into the house vacated by F. W. Allen at 240 Cedar street.

Chris Peterson, has moved from No. 3 Green Lane to the house recently occupied by Joseph Stackhouse.

Washington Camp No. 789, P. O. S. of A. will hold a benefit at "The Family" on Friday, October 3rd.

John Krauss, of Pond street, was called to New York on Saturday on account of the serious illness of his mother.

Daniel Bilger, the South Langhorne contractor and builder, is erecting a pair of fine houses for Manus J. Sweeney on Buckley street, opposite the hotel.

Chief of Police Saxton was called on to entertain four vagrants at the local police station over Sunday. They were brought in by Constable Lippincott, of Bensalem township.

Rev. W. T. Johnston, preached on Sunday evening last at the Methodist Episcopal church. At the close of the service he was presented with a beautiful bouquet for Mrs. Johnston.

Miss Mildred Stradling, of Wood street, and Miss Elizabeth Wilkinson, of Jefferson avenue, have entered the Rider-Moore & Stewart school, of Trenton, for a full course in stenography.

Mrs. Emlen Martin has received word of the death of her brother, Amasa Copp Tredick, on the 16th inst. of typhoid fever. He was the president of the State Bank, of Kingman, Kansas.

While gunning for reed and rail birds on Monday morning, Arthur Fine bagged a pure white reedy. A white reed bird is a very rare specimen and there have been but very few ever seen in this section of the country.

The Arabian steed driven by Philip Jones, the local mail carrier, became tired on Monday, and lay down to rest on the pavement in front of the postoffice. Assistant Postmaster Wright and some others disentangled him from his harness.

The work on the sewer system is progressing slowly. The sewers have been laid on Beaver Dam road from Walnut street to Canal street. But Pond street is not yet completed and the street is in a lamentable condition between Walnut and Penn streets.

Work on the new postoffice building is progressing rapidly. The large concrete and steel vault has been completed and the walls are up to the required height and a part of the cornice in place. The contractor expects to place the roof on within the next three weeks.

Mulford Callanan who for several years has been the popular clerk for A. Fabian, the druggist, has resigned and secured a fine position with the wholesale drug firm, of Smith, Kline & French in Philadelphia. Mr. Wegley, of Waynesboro, will take Mr. Callanan's place.

Filbert Allen has taken charge of the wholesale and retail tobacco store conducted for several years by C. C. Strumfels on Mill street and has moved into the dwelling part with his family. Mr. Strumfels and family have moved to their new home above Green Lane.

T. Walter McNally, local agent of the Delaware River Transportation Company, is devoting all his spare time to building a good substantial wheelbarrow, which he will keep at the wharf for the use of all patrons of the company who do not have teams and wish to do their own hauling.

A delegation composed of Mrs. J. McBrien, Mrs. Lidie Hartshorn, Mrs. Margaret Stradling and Mrs. Elizabeth Appleton, members of Sarah E. Bevan Home, No 41 Brotherhood of America, paid a fraternal visit to Wyssinoming Home No. 6, on Friday evening. Mrs. Stradling, Past State President, addressed the meeting and Mrs. McBrien rendered a vocal solo very effectively.

A meeting of the Methodist Brotherhood was held on Monday evening, President James Guy, presiding. A committee consisting of William Wilkinson, B. Frank Conner, Sr., Doron Green, B. Frank Conner, Jr., and Serrill Detlefson, were appointed to assist the General Committee in arranging for Brotherhood Night, during the 125th anniversary of the local Methodist church, October 12th to 19th.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the Bristol postoffice for week ending September 24: Julius Alescander, Frank J. Brown, Oleather Carter, Bessie Endlich, Herman Jones, Mary Flisgeld, Edith Keen, James Lari, C. W. Roberts, C. J. Stackhouse, Nicholas Smith, Mary Wismer, S. C. Millin, J. McCafferty (5), Merl Misser, Manis Pavomacns, Szanowny Pan, Gregory Bogsh, Acokmio Wuccipky, Salvatore Bilotti.

William Summerfield, who was injured last Saturday, has early recovered from the severe shake-up. He had been to the Robert Barnhill home on the Bristol pike and while driving out of the lane, trolley car No. 18 of the Trenton, Bristol and Philadelphia Street Railway, struck the back part of Summerfield's wagon crushing it and throwing him to the ground, inflicting very painful but not serious injuries. The wagon was reduced to kindling wood and the contents scattering in every direction.

Charles McIlvaine, the expressman, has been off duty, several days this week, on account of a crippled hand. On Saturday last, after unloading some goods on Chestnut street, he attempted to climb into the wagon. Just then his team started, throwing him, and in trying to catch himself he caught his hand on a nail protruding from the side of a box, lacerating the hand and tearing the finger open to the bone, almost its entire length. The wound is a painful one and Mr. McIlvaine is guarding against blood poison.

A good story is being told on a prominent Philadelphia real estate man who came to Bristol one day last week for a day's sport shooting on the marshes below the borough. A new gun, coat, vest, shoes, hat and license were procured and the young man came up to Bristol and registered at a hotel so he could be ready early in the morning. He hired a man to push the boat, paying two dollars for his labor, hired the boat and returned with nine birds. He was relating how plentiful the birds were and how close he could get to them and not being well posted in the different species asked one of our local gunners what kind he had killed. And what do you think he had—three reedies and six sparrows. And they cost him about twenty five dollars.

J. Milnor King, carrier of rural delivery route No. 1 of Bristol postoffice, has been a great sufferer for the past three months, from an attack of neuritis, which has weakened and partly paralysed the right arm. The condition is slightly improved this week.

Announcement is made that the Eighteenth Annual Meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women will be held October 14th, 15th and 16th at Swarthmore. It is held there by invitation of the Delaware County Association of Women's Clubs.

Chief of Police Charles Saxton is quite a gardener and this season had one of the finest flower gardens in Bristol at his home on Wood street. The chief also raised a number of sunflowers, one stalk reaching the height of twelve feet and it contained twenty-seven flowers of a good size.

It has been recently discovered that the curbs on the east side of Lafayette street between Wood and Pond streets have been nearly two feet out in the street. The work of setting them back and laying new cement gutters is now being done. Nearly all of the large trees on that side of the street will have to be removed.

The Locust Club, which has been located in the Lincoln block on Otter street, has leased and moved into the "Old Republican" headquarters, 110 Otter street. The building is being renovated and will be fully furnished, giving the boys a reception room, reading room and a gymnasium and pool room.

A horse is termed a dumb animal but Dr. E. J. Groom owns a beast that cannot be classed as such. During the summer months the horse has been put in the yard of the Masonic lodge on Cedar street and there is an iron hydrant near the fence which is turned on and off with an old-fashioned handle on the top. The horse has a habit of taking the handle in his mouth and turning the water on and then putting his head under the running water. Watch him some time when you go by the lodge home.

On last Wednesday Fred Mangold and wife, who live in a houseboat near the ship yard were arrested by Special Agent William R. Beck, of the Pennsylvania society to protect children from cruelty, and taken before 'Squire Kraft on the charge of neglect and cruelty to their child, an infant nine weeks old. From the evidence it appeared that the husband and wife were both mentally deficient. The man would not work and the mother begged food from the neighbors. The witnesses were Mrs. William C. Peirce, Mrs. Laura V. Jones, Mrs. S. M. Holden and Mrs. Mary Wilson. In default of one hundred dollars bail the Mangolds were committed to the county jail to await trial.

Death of Miss M. C. Baker.

Word has been received that Miss M. Catharine Baker died yesterday at 12.30 p. m. at the home of her nephew, Herbert Baker, of Atlantic City. She had been in ill health for some time, and the early part of the week a change in her condition rendered her unconscious, in which state she had been for several days. Miss Baker was the daughter of the late Dr. W. B. Baker. She was a music teacher, and for a number of years was organist of St. James Episcopal church, Bristol. The body will be brought to Bristol and buried it St. James graveyard.

Organ Recital.

The recital to be given by Miss Gertrude Lefferts next Thursday evening, October 2, in the Methodist church promises to be a brilliant affair. Miss Lefferts is an accomplished musician, and from childhood up she has given her time and talent where needed in our town. She will be assisted by B. Frank Conner, Jr., and some of the best talent in Bristol. A beautiful programme has been arranged and an orchestra of five pieces will be in attendance. A silver offering will be taken at the door. No tickets are required.

Surprise Party.

A very enjoyable surprise party was given last Friday evening to Miss Marie Keating in St. Marks hall. The hall was very prettily decorated with pink and white carnations. Dancing and games of various kinds were enjoyed. Piano selections by Robert Ferry and vocal solos by Charles McIlvain, were greatly appreciated. Those present were: Misses Mary McIlvain, Regina McIlvain, Elizabeth McCarry, Helen Hughes, Marie Hughes, Frances Musnuff, Anna McGinley and Inez Keating, of Bristol; Claire Drexler, of Frank[...] Gertrude Barlow, Helen [...] nter and Winifred Mannering, of [...] enton, and Marietta Dubois, of New York. SOME SEPTEMBER WEDDINGS

PATTERSON—BLOOMFIELD.

Benjamin Patterson, of Penn's Manor, and Miss Bessie Bloomfield, of Tullytown, were united in marriage on Saturday, August 30th, in Philadelphia, by the bride's former pastor, Rev. C. L. Fulforth, rector of an Episcopal church. The newly-wedded couple are very popular in this vicinity, the groom being the son of Mr and Mrs. Charles Patterson, prominent residents of Penn's Manor, and is employed as a clerk in the office of Thomas L. Leedom Company, at Bristol, while Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Bloomfield, of Tullytown, and was a stenographer in the office of William N. Henderson & Company, at Bristol Mr. and Mrs. Patterson are making their home at present with the bride's parents.

COCCI-NEPO.

Miss Menica Nepo, of Bristol, on Sunday became the bride of Pierino Cocci, of Philadelphia, Rev. Father Orland, of St. Ann's church, officiating. Miss Anna Capriotto was bridesmaid and Eurico Capriotto best man. The bride wore a lace over satin dress, with a bridal wreath and veil. The bridesmaid was dressed in white mousseline and lace. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, 1029 Chestnut street. Amid showers of rice and confetti, the happy couple left on the ten o'clock train for Philadelphia, where they will reside.

McCULLION-BOYLE.

A pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday when Dominick McCullion, of Garden street, and Miss Mary Boyle, of New Buckley street, were married at noon in St. Mark's church by Rev. Father Baurne. The bride was dressed in a tan coat suit, with a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Dugan, who wore a tan coat suit and tan hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses. John Dugan, of Philadelphia, was best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on New Buckley street. The happy pair left this morning for a short wedding trip, and upon their return will reside for a time with the bride's parents.

GALZERANO-PETINA.

One of the largest weddings in Bristol for a long while occurred yesterday morning at eleven o'clock in St. Ann's church, when Miss Jennie, daughter of Dominick Petina, became the bride of Louis Galzerano, a prominent undertaker of Philadelphia. Rev. Father Orlando officiating. The bride was clothed in Irish chantilly over white silk with a trailing veil fastened with a wreath and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley. Miss Katharine Policastro, of Newark, N. J., was bridesmaid and wore peach silk with a wreath and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The groom was attended by Charlie Faraich, of Philadelphia. A reception was held at the home of the bride's father, corner of Brook and Cherry streets, to which five hundred invitations had been issued. The newly wedded pair left on an evening train for a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will reside in their newly furnished home at 718 Hall street, Philadelphia, where they will be "at home" to their friends after October 1st.

FARRELL-KERVICK.

On Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock the first High Nuptial Mass for several years was celebrated in St. Marks church, when Margaret, daughter of Patrick and Catharine Kervick, became the bride of Michael Farrell, of Locust street, Rev. Father Bourne officiating. The wedding party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Katharine Keating. The bride was dressed in silk crepe de chine, with a wreath and veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Wishum, of Philadelphia, was bridesmaid, who wore white silk embroidered voile over pink, a pink picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Thomas Farrell, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. Following the mass, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 343 Washington street. Those present were: Rev. Father Bourne, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kervick, Miss Mary Wishum, Thomas Farrell, Karyan Kervick, Mr. and Mrs Daniel Kervick, Joseph, Marie, Daniel and John Kervick, Mrs. William Appleton and son, David, Mrs. Chambers and Miss Amanda Chamberlain. The happy couple left on the 9.16 train for a week's trip, visiting New York, Brooklyn and Scranton. The bride received many handsome presents in cut glass, china, silver and linen.

LIPPINCOTT-PARKER.

Another pretty wedding occurred in St. Marks church on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Father Bourne officiating, when Miss Ella M. Parker, of Market street, became the bride of Alfred J. Lippincott, of Mansion street. Miss Margaret Higgins, of Burlington, was bridesmaid, and George W. Parker, a brother of the bride was best man. The bride was dressed in white satin with a white satin hat and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a white embroidered dress and carried pink carnations. A reception was held at the bride's home. The happy couple left on the 3.15 train for Atlantic City. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents in glass, silver, china and linen.

BUNTING-MARTINDALE.

Miss Lillian Martindale and Albert J. Bunting, of Edgewater, were married on Wednesday evening at the M. E. parsonage by Rev. George M. Broadhead, D. D.

Death of Lewis Broadnix.

Lewis R. Broadnix, of Oxford Valley, departed this life early last Sunday evening, aged sixty-five years. Mr. Broadnix had been an almost life-long resident of Oxford Valley although he has at times made his home at other places. His trade, wheelwrighting, was acquired in the village and he became a skilled mechanic. He closed his trade only a few weeks ago by the sale of his stock and tools, since which time he has rapidly lost health, although he had been more or less complaining for many months. He spoke in praise of the care he received from the families of his two sons, Mortimer and Charles, who survive him.

The funeral took place on Thursday of this week, meeting at the house at one p. m., and proceeding to Beechwood cemetery, Hulmeville.

Better Police Protection Needed.

Early on Monday morning miscreants took possession of Mill street and not only roused the residents of that section by their hilariousness, but destroyed property, tearing down signs, wresting bread boxes from their fastenings and tearing porches and stoops from their places.

Officer Tice passed up Mill street at 3.30 and all was quiet. When Officer Bloodgood reported from box 9, Closson House corner, at 4.02 and then started up Mill street toward No. 1 box at the station house, the damage had been done.

The fact that such depredations could be done between the regular patrols of two officers, shows the weakness of the system that is used by the Police committee and a great deal of the criticism that is given to the police officers, belongs not to them, but to the committee of council, who force them to work under a system both antiquated and ineffective. Under the present police committee system, it is easy to evade the officer, and parts of the borough are entirely without police protection during the entire night.

ATTEMPTED PARTY RAID THAT FAILED

Last Hour Effort by Grundy Machine To Capture Washington Party Votes.

One of the slickest bits of political finesse which came to light on the eve of Tuesday's primaries was the attempt of Calvin S. Boyer, Grundy's candidate for District Attorney, to capture the Washington party nomination for that office, says the Doylestown Democrat. Even Cal's most intimate friends had no inkling that he had become such an adept in machine methods during the few short years that he has been a member of the Grundy outfit. The records of Philadelphia gang raids of other party nominations scarcely present a parallel to the bald, bold and secretive attempt of our District Attorney to rob the Washington party of its nominee for the office which he holds.

HOW TRICK WAS WORKED.

The District Attorney planned his raid with a good deal of skill, and that it was unsuccessful was due only to the fact that his lure failed to deceive enough Washington party voters. First obtaining from the Commissioner's office a list of all persons registered who had enrolled as Washington party voters, he then composed a very pretty letter, in smooth and guileless phrasing, and sent the letter to every enrolled Washington party voter. The glove that covered the mailed hand of the machine was as sleek as the finest seal skin. It is important to note the date of the letter, September 13, only three days before the primaries, with Sunday intervening, which prevented any reply until too late and blocking any attempt to stop the raid. In some States the law prevents the circulation of such letters so near to an election, but Pennsylvania has no such law.

WHAT THE LETTER SAYS.

Mr. Boyer's letter, among other things, says: "On the Washington party ballot to be voted for at the primary election on Tuesday, September 16, will appear the name of J. Ralphus Freed, candidate for District Attorney. Mr. Freed is also the Democratic candidate. His name appears on the Washington ballot through the efforts of the Democratic leaders in the county and a few members of the Washington party, who on the last day to file petitions hurriedly circulated a petition to have Mr. Freed's name placed on the Washington Primary ballot.

"Many Washington party voters," Mr. Boyer, with a real tender regard for the truth, continues, "have expressed serious objection to having Mr. Freed, who is chairman of the Democratic County Committee, foisted upon their ticket. The Washington party voters in my neighborhood did not sign his petition and many have assured me of their support at the November election, and will make every effort to obtain the Washington party nomination for me by writing or pasting my name underneath that of Mr. Freed in the District Attorney column on the Washington party ballot."

Mr. Boyer then enclosed a half dozen "stickers," and to make assurance doubly sure he also sent along a specimen ballot "showing where to place my name thereon."

THE ORGAN ALSO "FOISTS."

The Daily Intelligencer on Thursday, in commending District Attorney Boyer's last-moment stroke of political genius, says:

"The Washington party vote for District Attorney shows that a large number of the members of that party resented the foisting of Democratic candidate Freed's name upon their primary ticket, and will not vote for him at the November election, although he secured the nomination. In a large majority of districts votes on the Washington party ticket were cast for Calvin S. Boyer, and he carried twenty districts, notwithstanding the voters had to write his name on the ballots."

GOOD STORY ONLY IT'S NOT TRUE.

Even by design it would hardly have been possible to crowd an equal number of misstatements in similar space. Both Mr. Boyer's letter and the Grundy organ say that Mr. Freed's name was "foisted" upon the Washington party. Both use exactly the same word, but of course there was no collusion between the District Attorney and the Grundy machine's organ. This is how Mr. Freed's name was "foisted" upon the Washington party.

Mr. Freed went upon the Washington party ticket at the solicitation of prominent leaders of that party. His petition to have his name placed upon the ballot of that party bears the signature of one hundred and eighteen bona fide Washington party voters, residents of Bristol, Morrisville, Yardley, Langhorne, Hilltown and other voting districts of the county. Among the signers upon Mr. Freed's petition are the Washington party County Chairman, their delegate to their late National Convention and State Committeeman and their candidate for the Legislature. It was not necessary or possible to get the signatures of all the members of the Washington party to Mr. Freed's petition. Mr. Boyer's petition to have his name placed upon the Republican ballot as that party's candidate for District Attorney bears the signature of only two hundred or three hundred Republicans. He did not consult the other five thousand members of the party about it. Chances are even that he consulted only one man—Mr. Grundy. By omitting to consult all the members of his party, has Mr. Boyer "foisted" himself upon the Republican party as its candidate? According to his own words, he has.

It is not true that Mr. Freed's petition was "hurriedly circulated on the last day to file petitions." The petition, it was stated at the time, was in circulation a number of days before the last day. It would have been impossible to get one hundred and eighteen signatures from places so widely distant in a single day.

MACHINE RAID REACTING.

It is not true that many Washington party voters have expressed "serious objection" to having Mr. Freed upon this ticket. Quite the reverse is true. Mr. Freed will get almost the solid Washington party vote next November. The few who will not vote for him are personal friends of Mr. Boyer.

Now that the Republican candidate's party raid to get upon the ballot is exposed, all who were misled into voting for him at the primaries on Tuesday will drop him as a dangerous Grundyite trickster. No true Washington party man, who has any hopes for his party's future will support a member of the Republican machine who has been exposed in an attempt to place the Washington party in the attitude of a traitor to its principles and its members. Support of such a candidate for office in November would be political suicide.

Mr. Boyer wanted the Washington party nominaton for one reason—because he fears defeat with only the machine's backing. Wanting the nomination, why did he not go after it in the manly way at the proper time and openly circulate a petition to have his name placed upon that party's ballot? One very forcible reason was that he, being the Grundy machine's candidate, could not have gotten half the necessary number of Washington party members to sign his petition.

In Memoriam.

SPANGLER—In sad but loving remembrance of our only son, Harry S. Spangler, who died September 27th, 1902, in his 16th year.

The month of September again is here.
To us the saddest of all the year,
Because it took from us away
A dear son, eleven years ago to-day.
Sad in our hearts no tongue can tell,
Depth of our grief when we bid him farewell.

Fondly loved and sadly missed. Father, Mother and Sister.

Memorial Fountain.

Editor Gazette: For more than a year the Bristol W. C. T. U. has had under consideration the erection of a drinking fountain as a memorial to Mrs. Samuel Swain, who was for many years a prominent and active member of the union and whose lifelong interest in temperance work was lifelong. At length a suitable site has been obtained and an appropriate design for the fountain secured and it is hoped that within a few weeks work will begin upon it. It will provide for the needs not only of thirsty human beings but for horses, dogs, cats and birds. It has been thought that the late Mrs. Swain was for so long a resident of town, and had many friends here, that many persons, not connected with the union would desire to have a share in the expenses incident, as it is to be a permanent improvement to the town. For the convenience of the public Mrs. F. Lehman, 220 Radcliffe street, who is treasurer of the Fountain committee, will be very happy to receive contributions towards the "Fountain Fund," whether large or small. A small sum has already been given, and a large gift promised, but there will be several hundred dollars additional needed, and the W. C. T. U. makes this appeal to the town's people, and hopes to receive a generous response. "He gives twice who gives quickly." X.

AND READ THIS:

I can stand for the chap with the monogramed shirt,
And the boy with his trousers upturned;
And the man with the hat made of plush I assort,
I can stand, though the fad I have spurned.
I can stand for the guy with the white in his vest,
And not even grin when he passes.
But I snicker and smile, when I gaze on, the while,
The guy with the tortoise shell glasses.

I don't mind the man with the rakish green hat
With the bow in the back, nor the fellow
Who trims off each shoe with an up-to-date spat,
Nor the brother whose gloves are bright yellow:
But I'm ready to flee, when that dandy I see,
The guy with the tortoise shell glasses.

I can put up with him who must trim off each sleeve
With a row of pearl buttons, and note
In silence the man (though I secretly grieve)
With the braid on the edge of his coat.
The man with the handkerchief worn to be seen

...TING VENEERS.

...Methods Are Used—Sawing, ...ing and the Rotary Cut

...is very thin lumber The raw material is usually purchased in logs of random lengths Some are cut into flitches and in turn sawed into thin sections called sawed veneer In other cases the logs after being steamed are shaved to sharp knives This method produces sliced veneer Neither of these processes is as extensively used as the third the rotary cut, although for certain purposes they are of importance

The structure of the wood the size of the l...s and the use for which the veneer is designed largely determine the process employed Some foreign woods are very hard and like soft domestic woods—the conifers for instance—often ; reduce the best veneer when sawed, while for other woods the slicing method is preferred Where the product is for fine exterior finish and has to be selected and matched according to the figure or grain, sawing is the favorite method

The rotary cut process is similar in principle to the slicing process The log, after being steamed is revolved against a fixed knife the length of the log and wide sheets are shaved off

Veneers are cut into a number of thicknesses. The domestic woods rotary-cut range from five sixteenths to one-fiftieth of an inch and the imported woods from three sixteenths to one thirty-fourth In the sawed and sliced products the thickest veneer is five-sixteenths.—Indianapolis News.

FEATS OF MEMORY.

One Man Who Astounded Wesley by His Knowledge of the Bible

One of the most astonishing mnemonic feats on record is recorded by John Wesley "I knew a man about twenty years ago," writes Wesley "who was so thoroughly acquainted with the Bible that if he was questioned as to any Hebrew word in the old or any Greek word in the New Testament he would tell, after a little pause, not only how often the one or the other occurred in the Bible, but also what it meant in every place. His name was Thomas Walsh. Such a master of Bible knowledge I never saw before and never expect to see again'

Walsh had a close rival in Macaulay who, according to James Stephen could repeat "all Demosthenes by heart, and all Milton, as well as a great part of the Bible"

A strange instance of freak memory is recorded in the case of a servant girl in a Scottish manse She was almost illiterate, yet when delirious in fever, surprised those around her by repeating long passages of the Bible in Hebrew, The kitchen where the girl spent her evenings adjoined the minister's study. He was accustomed to read aloud. The girl had not understood or consciously taken heed of the reading, yet her mind had seized upon and stored the phrases — London Chronicle

THE FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

Maybe It Was a Quince Eve Ate In the Garden of Eden

Why and how it has happened that the apple has been spoken of as the fruit that was forbidden in the Garden of Eden is one of the great puzzles of biblical scholars The fact is that in Genesis iii where the incident of the eating of this fruit of the "tree of knowledge of good and evil" is mentioned no name whatever is given to that fruit. All that is said is 'And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes and a tree to be desired to make one wise she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat and gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat.' (Verse 6)

In fact scholars doubt very seriously whether it was the apple at all They suggest that all evidence points to it having been the quince the fragrance of which was held in the highest esteem by the Orientals Another point in favor of the quince is that it is the fruit which was sacred to Venus, the goddess of love and in a great many of the ancient writings the quince is very frequently mentioned in this manner In Babylonia Ishtar took the place of Venus in the Roman mythology and it should be remembered that the story of the creation originated with the Babylonians All evidence seems to point away from the apple having been the forbidden fruit,' and toward the quince as having been that fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil'—Tit-Bits

DREAMING OF FALLING.

What Happened In the One Known Case of Hitting the Ground

Probably all of us have dreamed that we were falling down the back stairs or a high cliff, then gliding swimmingly off into space This dream gives the same sensation as a rapidly descending elevator or a fast swaying swing We are worried for the instant about what will happen when we strike bottom but we never strike Either we are off on another dream before that disastrous event happens or we awake

There is an old superstition that if one ever hit the ground the shock would kill the dreamer but this is difficult of proof, for as our Irish neighbor might remark the only way it could be proved would be to have the dreamer wake up dead and tell us about it.

Of the thousands who wrote letters a few years ago to an Englishman who had published an essay on the subject but one correspondent had dreamed that the fall continued clear to the ground This woman dreamed she fell off a tall rock When she hit the ground she was broken into small bits but a sort of second self gathered up the pieces and glued them together, making a piece of humanity as good as new This dream however, is unique—Chicago Tribune

He had just reached the philosophical stage when he slipped into a restaurant between bars for a bit to eat. He ordered Then he sat staring ahead quietly thoughtful in expression and waited

It is admitted that he did some waiting too What happened to his order couldn't be understood outside the peculiar convolutions of a restaurant kitchen but he spent half an hour sitting there staring ahead of him

At last it came As the waitress put the order before him he started from his deep study as if he had forgotten he had an order coming Then looking up at the fair transporter of edibles he said

The Sleep of Horses

When the horse sleeps it is said that one ear is directed forward who is not known A writer in the English Mechanic thinks this is to guard against danger being a survival of its originally wild habits He says Wait a horse asleep through the window of his stable and make a faint noise at the front That ear will be all attention and probably the other will fly around sharply to assist Now let him go to sleep again and make the same noise to the left The forward ear still will keep guard, with possibly a light ning flick round only to resume its former position"

MYSTERY FLAGS.

Trophies That Are Souvenirs of Long Forgotten Battles

In the midst of that wonderful collection of the souvenirs of battle that are on permanent exhibition in Trophy hall at the Naval academy in Annapolis are the nation's unknown trophies Flags that were captured in now forgotten engagements are hung in the cases side by side with those whose glorious history is known

Two of these souvenirs of forgotten battles are British flags One is a jack marked Avon and nothing more the other is the ensign of a warship and is marked Beresford From the condition of both of these flags it is supposed that they date back to the war of 1812 but history gives no record of ships bearing those names being sent to American waters by Great Britain

Another of the mystery flags is the "814' flag In great white figures this number appears on a field of blue and the entire flag is bordered with red From some engagement in the war with the Moorish pirates the flag that the officers at Annapolis came to call the "house flag" seems to have come Yet no one knows where that battle was fought or under what circumstances of heroic sacrifice it was added to the long list of the trophies of our naval victories—Christian Herald

BATHING A PRINCE.

Thomas Smoaker "Seen His Duty and He Done It."

George IV while prince and residing in his Brighton palace kept in his bedroom a portrait of Mrs Gunn, an old bathing woman who used to dip him into the sea when he was the little Prince of Wales A picture book much prized by children in England in those days showed the old lady bathing the little fellow Beneath the picture was this stanza

> To Brighton came he > Came George the Third's son
> To be dipped in the sea
> By the famed Martha Gunn

A companion portrait to Martha Gunn's was that of Thomas Smoaker who had charge of the horse which drew the bathing machines into and out of the sea One day the little royal highness having learned to swim swam out farther than Thomas judged to be safe He called to him to come back, but the self willed boy struck out with more vigor Thomas went after the prince overtook him seized him by an ear and drew him to shore

The First Reporter

The modern reporter harks back to the reign of Queen Anne and to the unknown scribe who attempted to tell the public the secrets of her parliament He had a hard time of it for parliament wished to keep its secrets to itself In 1728 an order was passed "that it is an indignity to and a breach of the privilege of the house for any person to presume to give in written or printed newspapers any account or minute of the debates or proceedings that upon discovery of the authors printers or publishers of any such newspapers this house will proceed against the offenders with the utmost severity" During the famous Wilkes case in 1772 the reporters won the victory which they have since held without dispute—New York American

A Dish of Tea

"Dish" throughout the eighteenth century was a colloquialism for cup in fashionable houses at first, and for long, tea was drunk from a cup without a handle brought from China The vessel was termed a dish When the Chinese cup was first copied by English potters the convenience of a handle was added The saucer also was brought from China It received the name because of its resemblance to the English saucer a platter in which sauce was served The familiar gibe "saucer eyes was originally inspired by the sauce saucer long before Lord Arlington gave the first tea party in England in Arlington house, where Buckingham palace stands, at the restoration period—London Chronicle

As a part of the squabble over the world's decisive battles a reader comes forward with the statement that Waterloo decided nothing If Napoleon Bonaparte had won the battle he would have been crushed a few days later Yet everybody concerned went through the fight as if it really meant something It is strange how much clearer we see some things the further we get away from them—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Speed of Animals.

According to the naturalists, no animal is known to have exceeded the speed attained by the famous race horse Sysonby Instantaneous photographs show the full length of one complete stride of about twenty-six feet. In the stride of the fastest racers the hind quarters and limbs are raised considerably higher than the shoulders and from this relatively great height is brought downward and forward, widely separating from each other, as a sportsman says 'to avoid striking the fore legs' The hare which is hunted with fast dogs has not in reality the speed of the dog The dog, on the other hand, does not attain the speed of the horse. The giraffe is said to run at the rate of fifteen yards per second under the most favorable conditions The elephant, going at a rate of two yards a second carries a weight approximating that carried by six horses

Perpetual Silence.

A curious mourning custom obtains among central Australians who, although representing perhaps the lowest and most degraded type of human beings have managed to evolve a most complex system of rites and ceremonies which governs almost every action of their lives When a husband dies the widow paints herself all over with white pigment and for the space of a year must not exhibit herself to a male member of the tribe on pain of death. For the rest of her life, unless she marries again, which is sometimes allowed, she must not speak, but communicate ... by means of a ... of move... which ...

CURIOUS DUELS.

Combats In Which the Weapons Selected Were Avalanches.

An extraordinary duel was fought near Mont Blanc in France Two young men who had fallen in love with the same girl arranged to fight a duel, with nature as decider of the result.

Selecting a part of that mountainous district many thousand feet up where avalanches are known to fall at frequent intervals the lovers agreed to take it in turns to stand for a given time in the most dangerous spot that could be found The idea was that when one was killed by an avalanche the other should be free to propose to the girl whom they both loved. In this case the idea became a fact.

This is not the only instance on record of a duel by avalanche A few years ago two Italians, named Guetta and Sorato decided to test fate in this manner and also for the love of a woman

For three mornings they tempted nature but nothing serious happened On the fourth day Guetta was knocked down by a falling avalanche but not much hurt. Then it was that their food supply gave out and they returned home to get some more By this time the police had come to hear of their strange duel and threatened them both with imprisonment. So the undaunted rivals settled their differences in another and less adventurous way. They drew lots for their lady love. Sorato won and after Guetta had left the village he was married to the girl of his choice—London Answers

STRENGTH OF A LIMPET.

Its Sticking Power Largely Due to Atmospheric Pressure.

Every one is familiar with the saying "to stick like a limpet,' but there are not so many who know how it is that a limpet is able to stick as it does to the rocks upon which it passes its existence The creature is able by means of the central portion of its body which can be raised independently of the edge or frill which surrounds it, to create a vacuum much in the same way that a piece of soft wet leather can be made to adhere to a smooth surface by pressing out all the air Thus the so called "strength" of the limpet is largely due to atmospheric pressure

It is not entirely so however, for if they are closely examined it will be seen that the shells accommodate themselves around the edges to the surface of the rock upon which the limpet is located and if removed to another spot the edge of the shell will probably be found to be a very bad fit and the creature's power of adhesion somewhat lessened If taken by surprise with a smart sidelong blow even a large limpet is easily enough dislodged, but if it is given the slightest warning its power of suction is instantly brought into play and very often considerable force is then necessary before it can be detached—London Standard

An Unburied Picture.

Rossetti secured permission in 1869 to reopen the coffin of his wife in order to secure the manuscripts of some poems which he had buried with her seven years before

Some such incident might have occurred in connection with J M W Turner if his desire to be buried wrapped up in his own painting of 'Carthage had been carried out. There was some difficulty in selling the painting and the artist kept the canvas by him He always said he would be wrapped in it when he was buried and even went so far as to ask Chantrey if he would fulfill his wishes on that point

No doubt answered the sculptor "I shall bury you rolled up in your picture if it is one of the conditions of your will but I would take you up next day and unroll you!

Peperl—With my toes teacher—Fliegende Blatter

The Brightness He Saw

A man who died recently in the north of England had been living a dishonest life under the cloak of religion wishing to pose as a good man to the last said to those around him

"All is bright before me

"Aye said one of those present whom he had swindled out of a sum of money, "an in about ten minnits theau'll be near enoof to see th blaze!'—Manchester Guardian

The Brighter Side

Why Their Clothes Didn't Fit.

The late Admiral Robley D Evans during his visit to Japan was received by Mutsuhito and his empress at a court ceremony In speaking of the Japanese court he said

Hand kissing was not the thing In stead, I received a handshake from a very shapely and beautiful hand I found the empress a woman of great refinement and perfect ease of manner so delicate in appearance and so small in stature as to remind you of some fine piece of Dresden china She was attired in a Paris gown of heliotrope brocade, the bad fit of which I accounted for just as I accounted for the baggy trousers of the emperor After I had been a year in Japan I was satisfied it was owing to the fact that a tailor would not permit himself to touch the persons of their majesties but just looked at them and guessed what the measurements should be."

Long Lived Spaniards

Though the average age of Spaniards is among the lowest in Europe—thirty-two years and four months against fifty years in Sweden and Norway—yet Spain remains the land of hundred year-old people

South of the Sierra Morena there are fifty to sixty a hundred years old in every million inhabitants In Malaga and other parts of Andalusia 100 hundred year olds are reckoned in every million inhabitants And when a Spaniard once attains that age he usually hangs on to life for ten to fifteen years longer

One of the famous long lived men of Spain was Dr Manuel Barca, who lies buried in the Church of San Sebastian at Seville having 121 years to his credit according to the church records ... 300 descendants.—Boston ...

PANGOLINS OF AFRICA.

Curious Anteaters That Train With the Owls and Bats.

It is perhaps just as well to know what a pangolin is although one is not likely to meet it outside of Africa or the London zoological gardens The latter establishment has one of these rare mammals and is very proud of it This specimen is of the particularly rare variety with the rather inelegant given name of white bellied The pangolin is a sort of anteater whose body is covered with scales Although it is a mammal a stranger asked to make an offhand diagnosis would certainly call it a lizard

The white bellied pangolin trains with the owl and bats and sleeps during the daytime When sleeping it is rolled up into an object about the size of a large croquet ball and in this position owing to its plating of pointed scales is about as easy to attack or handle as a hedgehog The sharp pointed scales give it somewhat the appearance of an 'animated fir cone Its natural food appears to be white ants but in captivity it thrives on chopped raw meat and eggs It is arboreal and a wonderful climber with its clawed feet and prehensile tail

It seems to have no value to the human race except as a curiosity although perhaps the natives in Africa eat it as they do most everything else that by any stretch of the imagination can be called edible—worms, ants lizards snakes, etc, ad nauseam—New York Post.

ENGLAND'S CURIOUS WELL.

Its Water Never at the Same Level For Two Consecutive Minutes

Two miles out from Settle on the main road between that town and Ingleton Yorkshire England there is to be found one of the most curious of natural phenomena in the shape of the famous ebbing and flowing well of Giggleswick

A small unpretentious little structure scarcely to be distinguished from the ordinary trough of water to be seen on many of our country roads it is yet one of the most quaint and fascinating spectacles one could hope to see As the name implies the well has the nature of a tide It ebbs and flows continually though by no means with regularity

Sometimes the privileged traveler will see the oblong stone basin filled with clear water, then even as he gazes into its pellucid depths the water gradually sinks until the trough is half empty or it may be more There is barely time to wonder at this strange thing ere, with a rush and a whirl, the trough is again full The ebb and flow continue with more or less marked effect, and the water is never at the same level for two consecutive minutes Sometimes the outflow has scarcely begun before the basin again fills but at other times the trough is almost emptied.—Wide World Magazine

When Women Knew Not Golf.

A correspondent sends the Glasgow Herald some anecdotes of that period not so long ago, when women knew nothing of golf One lady, making sympathetic conversation at dinner said to a keen golfer "I often see you in your red coat. Do you need many dogs to play golf?" A younger lady said she knew exactly how the game was played They get what they call a caddier to hunt about in the grass till they find a round stone and then they hit it into a rabbit hole' A third lady who had evidently enjoyed a nearer view of the game said 'It is played by two men One is a gentleman and the other is a common man The common man sticks a ball on a lump of dirt and the gentleman knocks it off'—Westminster Gazette

An Indignant Artist

Haydon the painter was much disgusted when he visited London in 1846 at the time when two of his finest pictures were being shown at the Egyptian hall, and the public thronged into another room where General Tom Thumb was on view "They rush by thousands to see Tom Thumb" wrote the disappointed painter in his diary 'Their eyes are open but their sense is shut. It is an insanity, a rabies, a madness, a furor a dream! Another entry later on runs Tom Thumb had 12 000 people last week R. R Haydon 133½ (the half a little girl) Exquisite taste of the English people!"

Browning's Pauline.

The first edition of Browning's "Pauline" was sold at auction for $2 400, yet not only did Browning receive nothing for it originally, but he would have withdrawn it from print if it had been possible Yet so highly did Rossetti think of this despised masterpiece that, not being able to find a copy else where he went to the British museum library and spent several laborious days copying it word for word

No Complaint to Make

It was at the vaudeville The girl with the excruciating voice had just finished her song

"Just think!' groaned Brown to the stranger beside him We paid real money to hear that'

"I didn't.' was the placid response "Came in on a comp'"

'But you had to spend car fare to get here did you not?' asked Brown

"Nope" replied the uncomplaining one I live in walking distance

"But' persisted Brown desperately, "at least you hoped to be entertained not punished'

'No I didn't care' grinned the stranger I came to get away from home My wife is cleaning house'—Judge

Her Rule.

She was giving orders at express rate, for they were married, and he as a rule the most meek and submissive of men was, like the proverbial worm, beginning to turn

'Do you think' he inquired, "that you rule the whole of the universe?

"No," she snapped "but I rule the first letter of it."—London Answers.

An Anniversary.

A man may be rough looking and yet have a touch of sentiment about him

A ragged ill kept looking man appeared at the door of a Providence woman's home, and in a pleading tone asked

"Have you a piece of cake, lady, to give a poor man who hasn't had a bite for two days?"

"Cake?" echoed the woman in surprise "Isn't bread good enough for you?"

"Ordinarily yes, ma'am But this is my birthday," explained the tramp.—Harper's Magazine.

As Koreans Shop

Shopping in Korea is a very grave and solemn task and occupies the master of the house the greater part of the day In the market here he purchases his provisions cooking utensils linen suits hats sandals tobacco and the native drink a liquor obtained from fermented rice Only one article of the same kind is purchased from a single store It would be an offense against Korean etiquette to buy a dozen at a time ... this would deplete the stock too quickly and give the shopkeeper the trouble and work of restocking before he was ready It will therefore be seen that wholesale orders are not welcomed in this odd country little and often appears to be the Golden Rule in buying—Wide World Magazine

Out For a Dicker

The old fashioned farmer who liked nothing more than to dicker bobs up now and then to rub elbows with the moderns In a department store recently one of the old fashioned kind approached the clerk and inquired

A Story of Talleyrand.

During the troublous days of the French revolution when aristocratic heads were dropping in the basket in the name of liberty fraternity and equality Talleyrand lived and prospered by virtue of a marvelous ability to tell just the psychological moment to jump off one band wagon and aboard another

The name of this French diplomat has been kept alive more than have those of most of his contemporaries by a vast number of anecdotes in which he figures It was Talleyrand whom Mme De Stael homely but brilliant tried to corner by asking him if she and the beautiful Mme Recamier were to fall into the water which one he would rescue And Talleyrand smiled in his most languishing manner and replied

"Ah madame, but you swim so well, you know'"

Wangen's Fountain of Wine.

A fountain of wine is one of those historical extravagances which are generally associated with the name of Nero, yet on every July 13 the public fountain of Wangen, in the Alsace wine country, flows with wine In the middle ages the commune of Wangen was sentenced to make an annual payment to the monastery of Strasburg of 400 measures of wine. In 1793 the payment was abolished by the Directory Under Louis XVIII two merchants secured the transfer of the payment to them by means of forged documents, for £650, but the commune commenced proceedings against them, in which it was victorious on July 13, 1830 Since that date a communal festival has been held on that day, and from the public fountain erected to commemorate the victory wine flows for one hour in the day.—Westminster Gazette.

REALISTIC FIRE SPECTACLE AT FAIR

Pain's magnificent pyrotechnic spectacle The Last Days of Pompeii will be seen in all of its fiery grandeur at the Trenton Interstate Fair Sept 29 and 30 and Oct 1 2 and 3 Those of the general public who have never had the pleasure of witnessing one of these thrilling fireworks exhibitions have no conception of the magnitude of these displays their startling realism or spectacular beauty They are a delightful blending of all the most popular features of the circus hippodrome spectacle pantomime carnival fetes mimic warfare and scenic splendor in conjunction with a most beautiful display of the celebrated Pain fireworks

Fully 300 people are utilized in this marvelous Pompeii spectacle and acres of massive scenery will stand for a representation of the historical old Roman city at the foot of treacherous Vesuvius

This mimic reproduction of the ancient city of Pompeii will in itself be a revelation and the spectator will find it difficult to realize that he is gazing only upon a painted city so marvelous is real is the work of the artists Thousands upon thousands of yards of canvas is mounted upon frames of wood and iron scores of real buildings twenty to forty feet high with grim old Mount Vesuvius rearing its head nearly eighty feet above all the entire scene covering an area of four acres of ground and lighted by half a hundred electric arc lights complete a scene of marvelous beauty

Won Their Pardons.

From the time of the story of Damon and Pythias various reasons for temporary release from jail have been given It is related that in the Napoleonic era a soldier confined in a military prison for a minor offense against the service during a brief time of peace was released in order that he might be present at the christening of his infant son born during his imprisonment But Napoleon, in order to test the intensity of the man's desire made him agree to serve a year longer for the privilege of a three day furlough The soldier gladly did it and when he returned found a pardon and a corporal's warrant for his infant son to be valid when the son had served with credit six months in the emperor's army of the future Frederick the Great released an audacious captain under sentence of death so that the captain might tell him a few beneficial things about himself' The things told face to face influenced the great king to pardon the blunt death defying soldier—New York Sun

Beecher Found Them

Henry Ward Beecher used to visit his old friends once a year for many years but in the latter part of his life he was not able to do this In his very last year however he was able to spend a day in Indianapolis and went round the place That evening he was received by the ministers and the chairman in welcoming him said

Doubtless you find few of your old friends here in Indianapolis after so many years of absence but we who are here welcome you just as warmly'

Mr Beecher in reply said

Your chairman has said that I have found few of my old friends here in the city It is true I found only Mr — Mr — and Mr — (naming four or five of the old men of the city) But this afternoon we drove out to Cedar Hill' (the cemetery) "and I found them They are all there sleeping just as peacefully as they used to do under my sermons"

Why Not Schools For Men?

No man ever feels the need of education so much as the man who sees opportunity for advancement open before him but who does not dare to take it for fear that he can not rise to it. It is useless to say anything to such a man about neglected opportunities and it is equally futile to say the same thing to the youth who is neglecting his studies The first cannot go back and live his boyhood over, the latter cannot comprehend his danger nor will he believe in his own possibilities nor can he really study intelligently things for which he is not sufficiently mature The few who mature early enough in life to go through technical schools or colleges are provided for Can we not provide men's schools for those who mature normally?—American Magazine

A City That Was a Failure

Of all the seven cities of Asia perhaps Sardi has the most interesting and romantic history and yet with all its natural advantages, its wealth its famous rulers its wise counselors its victorious armies it was the greatest failure of them all says the Christian Herald The richest man in the world Croesus was king of Sardis the wisest man Solon was her guest and yet through overconfidence and lack of watchfulness time and again it was surprised conquered and all but destroyed until at last the disintegrating rock and soil from its own citadel loosened by the winter rains and buried down by destructive earthquakes buried the city thirty feet deep from the sight of man It became a dead city and it was buried by the forces of nature

Regulating His Sleep

John Wesley recognized the evils of oversleeping and gave a recipe where by one may find out how much sleep he really wants It was derived from experience I waked every night about 12 and lay awake for some time and I readily concluded that this arose from my being longer in bed than nature required I procured an alarm which waked me next morning at 7 (an hour earlier than I rose the day before) yet I lay awake at night The next morning I rose at 6 notwithstanding I lay awake the second night The third morning I rose at 5 nevertheless lay awake The fourth morning I rose at 4, as I have done ever since and I lay awake no more"—London Chronicle
